

Professional Profile – Stephen Foster

Design Consultant (CKD), CCW Cabinet Works

Stephen Foster is a Certified Kitchen Designer (CKD) who's worked in and around the housing industry for most of his career. Having previously worked with paints, carpets and textiles, Stephen came to CCW in 2004 and enjoys the role he plays in bringing your ideas to life.

Before entering the field of design, Stephen was employed as a professional chef and has a sound understanding of what works and what doesn't when assessing and designing for your space.

With this strong kitchen background, throughout the design process he will focus on form and function, and take considerable time to understand how you like to cook. By knowing how you work, what types of meals you prepare, and how much space you require for preparation, he can design you a kitchen that is fun to use and that allows you full freedom of movement.

Stephen knows there is much to think about and that the decisions you make will impact the performance of your kitchen long-term. So throughout the design process he will keep you up to date with any product changes, pass on any relevant industry information, and help you make the best decision possible for your home and lifestyle.

Making decisions on a kitchen is like buying a car – it's a big commitment. So while you might be thinking of the immediate future, Stephen is thinking ahead another 10 to 20 years to picture how the space will fit your lifestyle over time.

When not designing kitchens, Stephen has two main passions that drive and shape his approach to work – American muscle cars and his family. But if you can't find him tinkering in the shed at his house, take a drive up to Lake Tinaroo and check the water. He's probably out for a water-ski.
